A ENVIRONMENT

1.1 EMISSIONS

The major sources of air emissions of the Group during the reporting period are (i) direct emission generated by the Group; and (ii) indirect energy emission resulting from the use of electricity at its offices.

The Group believes that reducing and mitigating all forms of emissions from our business, to safeguard the well-being of humanity's future, is the duty of all businesses. The Group endeavours to observe environmental-benign practices in its operation. Measures include avoidance of appliances with high electricity consumption and adoption of efficient appliances to reduce emissions of greenhouse gases from our business. Furthermore, other recognized methods to reduce waste generation, such as double-side printing, and recycling waste paper are also adopted. As a result of the effective approaches and diligent implementation, the Group ensured wastes were handled in a responsible manner. Simultaneously, the Group's energy usage, and thus its corresponding greenhouse gas emissions, was also controlled to a sensible quantity. The Group considers the hazardous waste generated during the Group's operations is minimal as the Group's operating activities are generally in office buildings and the type of works carried out does not directly lead to the generation of hazardous waste.

The Group has complied and is not aware of any material non-compliance with the relevant environmental laws and regulations that have a significant impact on the Group relating to air and greenhouse gas emissions, discharges into water and land, and generation of hazardous waste, and has no violation during the reporting period.

The following tables set out the greenhouse gas emissions and wastes disposal the Group has recorded during the reporting period:

Sensible use of resources, such as turning off electronic equipment instead of standby mode and using e-statement and e-communication instead of printing where applicable, is encouraged among the Group's employees to cut energy consumption. As a result of the Group's energy-saving practices and water-saving campaign, its energy consumption, as well as water consumption, were kept to a sensible amount. Additionally, the Group provides necessary infrastructure to facilitate electronic documentation. In any cases that a hardcopy is necessary, double-side printing is always favoured to reduce consumption of paper, and in turn conserve forestry resources.
